ColourPop: Final Paper

Introduction

ColourPop is known for their vibrant and affordable makeup products. Since its establishment, the company has gained significant recognition for its commitment to producing high-quality, cruelty-free makeup with an extensive range of colors and textures. This paper aims to provide insights into the industry and category in which ColourPop operates, shedding light on key aspects that shape its competitive landscape. The cosmetics industry is dynamic and continuously evolving, driven by changing consumer preferences, trends, and innovations in beauty products. ColourPop positions itself as a brand that not only embraces diversity but also stays at the forefront of makeup trends. With a focus on providing affordable yet trendy options, the company has carved a niche in the market, appealing to a broad demographic of beauty enthusiasts.

Executive Summary

Some things that we will be going over is: who ColourPop is, what ColourPop's new product is, our slogan "LOVE (from California)", and what our goals, purpose, and intent are with this opportunity. We will break down the fundamentals of the industry that we are in as well as how we will be using our resources to further present, market, and budget our product.

About Colourpop

The Mission

It's ColourPop's mission to spread L.O.V.E by creating unique products at prices that don't break the bank. We imagine, develop, test, and manufacture all under one roof for next-level color + formulas. We pride ourselves on being 100% cruelty-free and wallet-friendly and keeping our community at the center of our world.

Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, & Threats

As previously stated, ColourPop is known for its vibrant and affordable makeup products. Since its establishment, the company has gained significant recognition for its commitment to producing high-quality, cruelty-free makeup with an extensive range of colors and textures. This analysis aims to provide insights into the industry and category in which ColourPop has some advantages, disadvantages, opportunities, and threats.

Core Values and Culture

ColourPop holds many core values such as safe makeup, safe working environments, and mid-range priced makeup. ColourPop was founded by siblings named Laura and John Nelson in 2014 within the state of California. Safety has always been a value of the brand. ColourPop is proudly a cruelty free company. This means that no animals are tested or experienced upon in the process of creating makeup. Hand in hand, Colourpop is also a vegan brand meaning that most products are manufactured without any use of ingredients that are animal based. To continue, Colourpop prioritizes safety all around the board, even when it comes to the working environment for their employees. Colourpop does not condone forced laborers, human trafficking and/or child laborers under any circumstance. Lastly, ColourPop is known for the prices of their products. Their motto is “Beauty that doesn't break the bank” Prices tend to range from as low as $4.00 to $64.00. This is very inexpensive when compared to other brands such as Fenty, Hourglass, and Nars.

Four P's

Analysis of Price: ColourPop is a makeup brand that offers cheaper prices for high end products. Products range from a very low price of $4.00 to their highest price which sits at $64.00. When you compare these prices to other makeup brands you are presented with a significant difference. This is why their motto is “Beauty that doesn't break the bank.”

Analysis of Product: Besides the low pricing ColourPop is known for the vibrant eye catching shades of makeup that they offer. From pigmented eye shadow pallets to vibrant lip colors. Products offered are great for all skin tones and types. Pigment, velvety satin and matte shades are all present.

Analysis of Promotion: Social media marketing is huge for ColourPop. They are very invested in advertising their products on social media sites such as Instagram and Tik Tok. “Colourpop is known to collaborate with Instagram influencers on a regular basis, as well as host giveaways that encourage followers to engage with posts” (2019, Schiffer). Hand in hand, ColourPop takes pride in advertising their fanbase on Tik Tok by labeling them as ColourPop Crew. “Tik Tok posts must tag the brand in the caption of the post (our handle on Tik Tok is @colourpopco)”.

Analysis of Place: Although ColourPop was founded in California it has now expanded much farther than its origin. You can find this brand sold all throughout the USA in many different stores such as Ulta, Sephora, and Target.

Competitive Analysis

Industry Leaders

As an industry, makeup is known as a cosmetic industry. The cosmetic industry can also be considered a subcategory to the beauty industry. The leader in this cosmetic industry is a brand called L’oreal Paris. L’oreal is not only a leader in the United States but also worldwide originating from Paris, France in 1909. L’oreal can be considered a more expensive company for makeup because of certain products that they produce into the market. L’oreal has 40 billion in sales annually really making them be on the top of the market. L’oreal also could be considered a middle classed brand considering that some of their products are also on the more affordable side of the spectrum. The production of other beauty products can also be a result of L'oreal's success and popularity. Thus making L'oreal able to exceed its competitors and becoming a leader.

Another industry leader in makeup brands is Estee Lauder. Being the second largest solely makeup brand out there. Just like L'oreal Estee Lauder has other products they sell and produce making their revenue higher. As they have about 16 billion in sales annually. They also have been around for quite some time being founded in 1946, New York, NY. Being high in the market these two companies compete and make each other better as time goes on. Doing this they want to stay at the top of the market.

Leading Competitors

ColourPop is an affordable quality makeup and skincare company with most of their products falling between $5 and $20. They are known for their vast array of vibrant colors and pop culture collaborations with shows and movies. Their products are sold through Ulta, Sephora's brick and mortar stores and websites, in addition to their own website. They market mainly towards young women that like to use vibrant colors in their makeup looks (ColourPop).

Maybelline is an affordable high quality makeup brand that is one of ColourPop's leading competitors. They market to young women and their products typically fall between $8 and $15. Their website also has a virtual try on feature for all of their makeup products, quizzes to help customers determine the best products for them, and tutorials on how to best use their products. Maybelline also sponsors initiatives to support those dealing with anxiety and depression and to show their commitment to sustainability. This shows that their target audience is young women wanting affordable quality products that are comprehensive to buy and use (Maybelline New York).

Nyx is another affordable high quality makeup brand with most of their products falling between $5 and $15. Nyx markets to young individuals that want high quality professional looking makeup for a good price. Nyx positioned itself as an inclusive brand that highlights its desire to provide make-up to all people of all skin tones and sexual orientation. Nyx also has a virtual try on feature for many of their makeup products showing their commitment to helping new users find the best products and looks for them (Nyx).

E.l.f. is another quality affordable makeup brand with products ranging from $2 to $15. E.l.f.'s website markets to both young men and women that like high quality affordable makeup. E.l.f. stands with young adults on the issues they care most about with a whole page of their website dedicated to the impact the company has made on sustainability, inclusivity, and animal friendly initiatives. E.l.f. has numerous articles and videos on their website about how to find the best products for you and best use them, but they do not have any quizzes or virtual try on features (e.l.f. Cosmetics).

Taglines

The words, slogans and taglines companies use to market their products paint an image of a company's ideals and their target market. The makeup industry is one of the most flexible and trend based industries in how they market their products. As such, most makeup companies have forgone a singular consistent tagline in lieu of a series of foundational mission statements that they use at different times for different campaigns.

ColourPop's main tagline is "Made with love from California – Wallet friendly, bunny approved." This shows ColourPop's desire to have a brand that feels friendly, personable, and caring. It also shows their commitment to making high quality ethical products for a great price.

Maybelline was founded in 1914, and as such their marketing has evolved drastically throughout the years. Formerly their iconic tagline was “Maybe she’s born with it, Maybe it’s Maybelline.” Towards the beginning of the 21st century this tagline became abrasive to newer generations as it encourages a comparison mindset with other women and suggests that not all women are born beautiful. Recently Maybelline has taken this slogan back by saying “We believe you are all born with it.” This shows their ability to stay with the times shifting their marketing verbiage to be inclusive of all genders and races as well as positive.

Their website features three main headings: “We’re from New York, and in this city you have to be ready for anything. That’s why we make no hassle, high performance makeup-tried and tested on our streets. So whatever the world throws at you you’ll look and feel ready.” This shows their commitment to high fashion trendiness and makeup that is fast and durable as New York is known as a trend setting, fast paced, chaotic place. They also have the tagline of “Make Up Make Change” which shows their commitment to sponsoring initiatives that support inclusivity, mental health awareness/support, and environmental change. All of these messages combine to assert Maybelline as a master of marketing to today's trendy-make up using younger generations.

Nyx Professional Makeup in a way uses “Professional Makeup” as their tagline boasting of their trusted high quality products. The main tagline on their website is “Welcome to the bright side...At Nyx Professional Makeup, we always want to be the brightest part of your day.” This is their commitment to no hassle, high quality, high pigment products. They also proudly have cruelty free products and support diversity showing their commitment to resonating with their target audience of young trendy adults.

E.l.f's main featured tagline on their about page is "own your beauty" followed by "e.l.f. is for every eye, lip and face" and "be extra without paying extra." These headings along with messages about healthy, cruelty free makeup and customer care show e.l.f's desire to have a personable, caring, inclusive, and high quality brand image.

Market Share

As the market share shows we have about 70.6% taken by Maybelline, 15.6% is from e.l.f, NYX takes up 12.2%, while ColourPop takes only 1.6%. From this data you can see that ColourPop shows in a very small percentage of the market share. Just because we take a small portion does not mean that we don't profit from our sales. With this 1.6% share we make about 59 million as a yearly revenue. We are also relatively new to the market as ColourPop was established in 2014. As for the biggest share of the market Maybelline makes about 2.6 billion as a yearly revenue. Their brand has such a big name and revenue because they have been here for a long time as they were founded in 1914. Nyx founded in 1999 has made about 450 million in yearly revenue. Also a newer company e.l.f first came into the world in 2004 making about 578.8 million in revenue a year. As you can see as time goes by the profit margin increases as the years pass.

ColourPop Social Media

Colourpop may only have 1.6% market share but we are thriving due to our strong social media presence. We are active on various social media platforms such as Snapchat, Instagram, Twitter, Facebook, and Youtube. On these platforms Colourpop shares a variety of content such as product launches, makeup tutorials, user-generated content, promotions and sales, and engagement and interactions. Our main platform is Instagram and currently we have 16,774 posts with 9.9 million followers.

Competitor Social Media

e.l.f. Cosmetics utilizes various social media platforms like Instagram, Twitter, Facebook, and YouTube to engage with their audience, showcase their products, and offer makeup inspiration. Compared to Colourpop, e.l.f has 9,905 instagram posts with 6.9 million followers. Maybelline is a popular brand that is active on various social media platforms such as Instagram, Twitter, Facebook, and YouTube. In contrast Maybelline has 4,348 posts with 12.2 million followers. Lastly, NYX Cosmetics maintains a strong presence on various social media platforms such as Instagram, Twitter, Facebook, and YouTube. Set side by side to ColourPop's instagram NYX has 13,294 posts with 14.5 million followers.

Competitor Strengths

ColourPop's closest competitors are ELF, Maybelline and NYX. All brands are similar but very different. To begin with, some strengths that ELF brings to the table are low costing products with good quality, as well as taking pride in catering to their customers. Maybelline holds strengths such as having a well known and specific target audience, a strong research and development department as well as a wide spectrum of products based upon the choices of their consumers. As for our last competitor NYX is said to have a great adaptation to the demands of the customers and they also provide trust and credibility. As for ColourPop they have strengths such as the ability to efficiently react to customer demands, engagement in regular customer launches, positive community engagement and so on.

Competitor Weaknesses

With strengths of these brands also comes weaknesses. Firstly, some weaknesses of ELF are their dependency on third-party retailers, limited product innovation and challenges with international expansions. Secondly, Maybelline holds weaknesses such as poor website maintenance and chemical presence within products. Nyx, being the last competitor, holds the weaknesses of poor advertising and lower quality products when compared to competitors. As for ColourPop areas they can be improved upon are vague descriptions of some products as well as only targeting younger adults.

New Product Introduction

An Unfilled Need

According to our research 70% of women currently or used to feel overwhelmed by makeup. They have two pain points: fear of wasting money buying products that won't work for them, and fear of not knowing how to use those products. Our new product will be the first in the industry to solve this by offering an accurate quiz that will create a curated bundle of products based on each individual's skin type/coloring and curated tutorials on how to best use those products on your features. Colourpop will not be the first company to address women's fear of buying the wrong products, many other companies already have makeup quizzes to help women find the best products for them. However, Colourpop will be the first to address women's fear of not knowing how to use products by having our quiz link to a webpage with curated tutorials, Q and A's, and inspos for each skin type, color set, and facial shape. By being the first to address both the first and second pain points that 70% of women experience, we will gain many new brand loyal customers while they are young and inexperienced increasing our market share.

Product Image

As discussed earlier, Colourpop and many makeup brands don't have a singular slogan that they consistently use. With our campaign we will change this and make Colourpop's new slogan "Made with L.O.V.E., L.ong lasting, O.riginal, V.ersatile, E.mpowering." Our slogan for our new bundles will build off of this being "Made with L.O.V.E., made for you." Continuing with this theme of love, our three bundles will be named “Love your: skin,” “Love your: colors,” and “Love your: face.” Throughout our packaging and campaign will use language of self love, empowerment, and self confidence. We will also use the hashtag #ColourpopLOVE to promote our product on social media and start a user generated content campaign.

New Product

At ColourPop, we understand that each individual has unique preferences and needs when it comes to makeup. That's why we've introduced personalized makeup bundles designed to cater to your specific requirements. Through our online quiz, you'll have the opportunity to receive personally picked makeup curated by a team of experts including color analysis professionals, dermatologists, skincare specialists, and makeup artists. Here's how it works:

Firstly, upon visiting our website, you'll be prompted to take a brief quiz that delves into various aspects of your skin tone, skin type, makeup preferences, and any specific concerns you may have. This quiz is carefully crafted to gather detailed information about your individual needs and preferences.

Once you've completed the quiz, our team of experts analyze your responses to curate a personalized makeup bundle tailored specifically to you. This bundle is meticulously crafted to include products that complement your unique skin tone, address your skincare concerns, and align with your makeup preferences.

Each personalized bundle comes with a unique personal code that corresponds to the specific products included. The code makes it easy to access these products again even after your bundle purchase, which makes reordering a product you loved simple. The code can also be shared with others, if you so choose, and they can purchase the exact formula that you used. With Colourpop's online presence, we made sure that with this code influencers could share them with their audiences so they can recreate exact looks with the same colors. This personal code ensures that you receive the exact products curated for you, making your shopping experience seamless and hassle-free.

Now, let's take a closer look at the makeup bundles available:

Bundle 1 (4 Products): Primer, Concealer, Contour, Foundation

- This bundle is perfect for those looking to create a flawless base for their makeup. It includes essential products such as primer and foundation to create a smooth canvas, along with concealer and contour to perfect and sculpt the face.

Bundle 2 (4 Products): Eyeshadow, Blush, 3 Lip Products, Highlight

- Ideal for adding a pop of color and radiance to your look, Bundle 2 includes eyeshadow and blush to enhance your features, along with a variety of lip products to suit your mood and style. A highlighter is also included to add a luminous glow to your complexion.

Bundle 3 (10 Products): Primer, Concealer, Foundation, Contour, Blush, Eyeshadow, 3 Lip Products, Highlight, Setting Spray/Powder, Brow Gel/Pencil

- For those looking for a comprehensive makeup collection, Bundle 3 has it all. From base products like primer, concealer, and foundation to color cosmetics such as blush, eyeshadow, and lip products, this bundle has everything you need to create a full face of makeup. Additionally, it includes setting spray or powder to lock in your look and brow gel or pencil to define your brows.

With our personalized makeup bundles, you can rest assured that you're receiving expertly curated products tailored to your individual needs and preferences. Say goodbye to guesswork and hello to a personalized makeup experience with ColourPop.

The Target Audience

Colourpop's established audience is women in their 20's which is the demographic that spends the most on makeup (Raja) and tends to be very confident in their makeup skills. With Colourpop's new quiz feature that results in a curated bundle and makeup tutorials to go with it, Colourpop has the new target audience of women who aren't yet confident in how to purchase and use makeup. In our own market research 39.4% of our respondents said that they feel very overwhelmed by how many makeup brands and products there are, 36.4% said that they sometimes feel overwhelmed, and 15.2% said that they used to feel overwhelmed but they don't anymore (Market Research). This is our main target audience and clearly a very large one.

We have identified through our own market research that slightly younger women ages 18 to 25 as being our target market for this new product. These women have just recently gained the money and freedom to start shopping for themselves. They also don't have pre-established brand loyalties so they buy things based on price, packaging, and advertising rather than relying on previous personal experiences that they don't have yet. This means that if Colourpop can effectively advertise our new curated bundles that we are confident will perfectly fit our customers features and color, package them nicely, and sell them for an affordable price, Colourpop will gain many lifelong brand loyal customers in addition to selling a lot of bundles. In our own market research, 21.2% of people said that a great first experience with our curated bundles would result in complete brand loyalty, 54.5% said it would result in non-exclusive brand loyalty, (meaning that they'd be brand loyal but still occasionally experiment with other brands), and 24.2% said it may or may not result in their brand loyalty (Market Research).

Our buyer persona, "Overwhelmed Olivia" embodies all of this. Overwhelmed Olivia is a nineteen year old that lives in a city and just got her first part time job which means for the first time in her life she has the freedom and money to do her own shopping. She has no brand loyalty yet, and is overwhelmed by how many products and brands there are and unsure of which things to buy. She wants to find makeup products that look great on her features and colors and figure out which brands she can trust. She also needs her makeup products to be affordable and easy to use. One of her biggest pain points and fears is spending no significant amount of money on a makeup product only to discover that it looks bad on her or is too difficult to use.

The Market Segment

Colourpop's new curated bundles will appeal to people in many different market segments. However, the market segment we have identified as being the most likely to purchase our product is young women ages 19 - 25 of any ethnicity that align with our "Overwhelmed Olivia" persona. These young women will have very low personal incomes, but will still have support from their parents which could be low, middle, or high income. These women will be just finishing high school and either moving into college or getting their first full time jobs so they will be very cost conscientious. Our new curated bundles will satisfy both their frustration of feeling overwhelmed and their buying behavior of wanting to save money wherever they can. In our market research 56% of our respondents that originally said that they would maybe, or probably not take our quiz said that receiving a discounted bundle at the end of the quiz would be a game changer that would make them decide to take it. 30% of our respondents who would've taken the quiz anyway said that they love bundles too. In our research only 12% of our respondents said they disliked bundles. Our curated bundles could also potentially help our young target audience to convince their parents to help pay for their makeup, which would be a huge win for them.

In order to simplify and save money on our advertisement campaign and quiz development we will begin by targeting English speakers in developed countries; mainly the United States and Europe. Expanding into other languages and locations is a goal of ours. Regionally we will focus on women that live in cities and suburbs as they tend to consume more makeup products. Our campaign will mainly be run through social media campaigns on Instagram and Tik tok, and in store displays and packaging as these are the channels of advertisement most likely to reach our market segment (Market Research). Individuals in our target market segment either are existing makeup users or are wanting to become a makeup user. They are comfortable with technology allowing them to discover our social media advertisements, participate in our social media campaigns, and take our online quiz with confidence.

New Product Introduction

Campaign Timeline

A marketing timeline is important because it provides a structured and organized approach to planning, organizing, implementing, and optimizing marketing strategies and campaigns. It facilitates strategic planning and organization, alignment and coordination, budget planning and allocation, timeline management and deadline tracking, performance monitoring and optimization, and communication and stakeholder engagement, enabling businesses and marketing teams to effectively and efficiently execute marketing strategies and campaigns, achieve business goals and objectives, and drive business growth and success.

ColourPop timeline will be a 4-month duration during the summer time. Due to our budget we decided 4 months would be a suitable amount of time to achieve key milestones and deadlines for our marketing campaign tactics, including launch date, and promotion end date. Furthermore, month 1 we will do research and planning, month 2 we will focus on implementing and launching. During the second month we will start to launch all traditional and social media advertising. Building on this, in the third month we will build engagement and continue with expansion. The event we are hosting will take place during this month so we can build engagement with new clientele and continue to expand our company and products. The last month we will use for optimization and analyzation of our campaign.

Through out the whole campaign we will use the hashtag #ColourPopLOVE to promote our new product. It is important that our lovely consumers know that all our products are “Made with L.O.V.E” . This whole campaign was “ Made with L.O.V.E” and to break it down even more listed below is a detailed listed breakdown of what will happen each month.

 - Conduct a comprehensive analysis of the 4-month marketing activities, results, and ROI.
 - Prepare a detailed marketing report with key findings, insights, and recommendations for future marketing strategies and campaigns.

Traditional Advertising Campaign Budget

In order to advertise our budget we have chosen the Three main advertising techniques that we will be using to broadcast our new product. The first One being, SEO also known as search engine optimization. A search engine optimization is the steps taken that assist with your website appearing first when searched in different engines such as Google and Chrome browsers.

Our total amount used over the span of Three months is $30,000 dedicated to SEO. The search engine itself is $8,000 while the amount that we will pay our dedicated SEO staff is $2,000 both over the span of Three months. Both $8,000 and $2,000 added together equals $10,000. This amount is then multiplied by the Three months that our campaign will be active.

To continue, our second advertising technique is in store advertising. ColourPop is already in partnership with Target and Ulta. These are the Two stores we will continue to advertise our products in. With the sum total of 1,956 Target locations and 1,407 Ulta locations we have chosen a select few to advertise our new product within. As it is very expensive to advertise within stores our sum for this technique sits at $110,000.

Lastly, We will be advertising our new product via email subscription. Customers will be able to receive informational emails about ColourPop upon signing up for weekly emails. This will cost us \$3,400 per month. We plan to send out bulk emails. To do this we have paid for a professional to create a neat email layout for us which cost \$1,000. We will continue to use this layout until revisions need to be made. Further, the technique that our email marketing campaign used when charging us was CPT also known as cost per thousand. The standard equation for this is $(\text{Number of emails}/1000) * \text{CPT Rate}$. CPT rates tend to be more expensive when less emails are being sent. However, since we are sending a high amount of 100,000 emails to customers our CPT rate is lower and sits at \$8.00. This is compared to others who plan to send 10,000 emails with a CPT rate of \$10.00. When plugging our numbers into the given equation you receive $100,000 \text{ emails}/1000 * \$8.00 = \$800.00$. Once again, our campaign is active for Three months so $\$800.00 * 3 = \$2,400$. The design of our email template is a one time fee which ends our price for email subscriptions at \$3,400 per month.

Social media Campaign budget

ColourPop's estimated total budget for our social media campaign is $200,000. We are deciding to focus most of our money, time, and energy into social media because of its incredibly high conversion rate with content and ads linking straight to our quiz. Our campaign will focus on Instagram as it is the app that most closely reflects our target audience of young English speaking women, ages 17 - 24. Of Instagram's two million global users (Dixon) the vast majority use the app in English (Francis), 38.8% are in the age range of 13 to 24, and 56.9% of American users are female (McLachlan). Instagram also has and one of the best shopping features (Maravilla), and is the best up for paid ads and influencer marketing.

Instagram Ads

$65,000, or 32% of our budget will go towards paid Instagram ads. $50,000 will go directly to our ad spend and $15,000 will go towards paying our Instagram Ad Manager for three months. The average yearly salary of a Social Media Ad Manager is about $50,000 but we will only need to contract ours for three months so $15,000 is a realistic price (Gagliardi). Instagram's app has the highest ROI for paid ads of all social media apps (Forsey) so our money will be well spent on these ads. Our expected initial ROI after three months is $50,000 and a long term ROI that could be as high as $2 trillion (see projected revenue section).

Influencer Advertising

$75,000, or 38% of our budget will go towards Influencer advertising on Instagram. $60,000 will go towards paying Instagram influencers to advertise and review our new personalized bundles and $15,000 will go towards paying our Influencer marketer. The average yearly salary of a Social Media Ad Manager is about $60,000 but we will only need to contract ours for three months so $15,000 is a realistic price (Salary.com). Instagram is the most popular platform for influencer marketing (Forsey), and influencer marketing has become a crucial part of any advertising campaign with 93% of marketers including influencers in their marketing strategies (Sked Social). Influencers accumulate massive followings of very niche and homogeneous demographics and Influencers become masters at catering to that audience. This means that if you can find influencers whose followings match your target audience, you are in for a very high ROI. In fact, “89% of marketers find the ROI on influencer marketing comparable or better than other marketing channels” (Sked Social), and “thirty percent of marketers in the HubSpot survey say that they get the biggest ROI for influencer marketing through [Instagram]” (Santora). Our expected initial ROI after our three month campaign is $90,000 with a potential long term ROI of up to $3 trillion (see projected revenue section).

Instagram Content

$40,000, or 20% of our budget will be spent on creating and executing an excellent Instagram content campaign to create a buzz surrounding our new personalized bundles and increase ColourPop’s following. According to Sprout Social Inc. content creation costs $7,000 a month and platform management costs $5,000 a month (Chacko). Across three months this brings us to $36,000. As a highly effective form of owned marketing, $36,000 is a small price to pay for growing ColourPop’s following and creating a very strong voice for the brand.

According to Shagr Media Co. “A 2018 survey of 22,000 retail shoppers pointed to “trust in the brand” as a top factor in determining where to purchase. Authentic interactions on Instagram builds trust and contribute to long-term loyalty,” (Eliasson).

$2,000 of our Instagram content budget will go to a big User Generated Content campaign to get fans of ColourPop to make content and advertise for us. This will greatly further our reach and bring the people into our personalized bundle campaign. Our campaign language is all about loving our customers with our slogan being “Made with L.O.V.E. – Products you’ll love for Life, Original to you, Versatile, and Ethically produced” and our bundles being “LOVE YOUR: skin, LOVE YOUR: colors, and LOVE YOUR: face”. In our UGC campaign customers of a personalized bundle can use the hashtag #ColourPopLOVE on a post showing their makeup look for a chance to win a $100 store credit and/or be featured on our Instagram and website. According to Hootsuite “86% of consumers are more likely to trust a brand that shares UGC” (Beveridge) and according to Adobe “72% of consumers believe customer testimonials are more credible than a brand talking about its own products” (Adobe). Thus our UGC campaign will increase sales, increase our followers brand loyalty, and create a great brand image for ColourPop.

The remaining $2,000 will be spent on twenty free bundles sent to the winners of a viral giveaway to launch our product. In order to qualify for the giveaway, people must follow ColourPop, like the post, tag friends in the comments and/or share the post to their story. Instagram giveaways “generate a lot of excitement around your brand, bringing in new eyes and increasing reach and engagement... sometimes by a lot,” making it a very cost effective marketing strategy (West).

Video Content

Finally, $20,000 or 10% of our social media budget will be spent on creating youtube tutorials for how to use all of the products in our curated bundles in different ways. Our target personal Overwhelmed Olivia fears purchasing the wrong products and not knowing how to use them. Our quiz and personalized bundles will enable her to buy products with confidence. Our youtube tutorials will help her use her new products with confidence. These tutorials will also be linked on our website, Instagram, and on a QR code from each bundle we sell so that they are very easily accessible. These tutorials will solve the second key pain point our customers have, encouraging more people in our target demographic to purchase one of our bundles and then increasing the likelihood that they become brand loyal afterwards.

Event Campaign Budget

The budget for the launching event of our new product reflects a strategic allocation of resources to ensure a memorable and impactful experience for our guests. With a total budget of $77,500, each aspect of the event has been carefully considered and allocated accordingly. A significant portion, $20,000, is dedicated to providing personalized bundles for our guests, offering them a firsthand experience of our new product offerings. Additionally, $8,000 has been allocated towards audiovisual equipment and production to create an immersive and engaging atmosphere. The event site, with a budget of $4,000, ensures a suitable and aesthetically pleasing venue for the occasion. Communications, allocated $4,500, will facilitate effective promotion and coordination of the event. On-site support staff, budgeted at $6,000, will ensure seamless execution and attendee satisfaction. Lastly, the meeting management fee of $35,000 reflects the strategic planning and coordination efforts invested in orchestrating a successful launch event. Overall, this budget underscores our commitment to delivering a memorable and impactful experience for all involved in the launch of our new product.

Traditional Marketing Individuals

When it comes to traditional marketing and evaluating the responsibilities and tasks of employees, the company has to provide enough money to those who are going to uplift the project, like copywriters, designers, specialists, and more. ColourPop's biggest marketing platform (besides digital media) is the in-store marketing project. With $30,000 going into in-store marketing, we strive for the utmost best for our customers as the goal is to have the design to be easy to understand and they are able to take the quiz in-store. The designers along with the copywriters and marketing planners will have an even cut of $10,000 to produce an in-store advertisement to reach as many people as possible.

As stated in a previous section (refer to Advertising Campaign Budget), we would use SEO (search engine optimization) to increase the chances to have our website be the first when using search engines. The SEO specialist would get paid $10,000 to keep ColourPop trending with algorithms and making sure that the website is near the top of the list when searching for: makeup, cosmetics, custom makeup, and more along these lines.

When conducting email newsletters, the copywriters and designers would each get paid $1,000 for their one time contribution. These newsletters would consist of news about the new ColourPop Bundles and more coupons and deals for already existing customers.

Digital Marketing

Digital marketing encompasses a wide range of functions and responsibilities. Due to our given budget, we narrowed down a few individual tasks and duties. We focused on web design, affiliate marketing, and retargeting. Website designing is crucial as it plays a role in shaping the user experience and influencing the success of a website. Building on this, we want our website to make a great first impression, create brand identity and recognition, enhance user engagement and conversation, and continue to have a competitive advantage while maintaining accessibility and inclusivity. Therefore, we need individuals to be able to design our website and troubleshoot any technical problems customers may have. We will have a specific website designer for this 4-month period, giving them a salary of $8,000 while having an IT person on standby for a $2,000 salary for the campaign duration.

Additionally, we will use a bit of affiliating marketing so we can partner up with other businesses. We budgeted to use $8,500 dollars so we and other companies can increase our reach and exposure while enhancing our credibility and trust. Since this will not be our primary exposure to our lovely consumers, we did not want to exceed $10,000 on this. Lastly, we will retarget some of the ads. Retargeting is a powerful strategy that can be highly effective so we can re-engage potential customers who have visited our website but did not make a purchase. Dynamic retargeting will allow us to automatically show personalized ads featuring the products our lovely consumers added to their cart or have viewed.

In summary, digital marketing is a crucial and integral part of the overall marketing strategy for businesses in today's digital era. It offers a variety of channels, techniques, and tactics to reach and engage the target audience, increase brand awareness, drive website traffic, generate leads and sales, and achieve business growth and success. By leveraging the power of digital marketing, ColourPop can stay competitive, adapt to changing market trends and consumer behaviors, and effectively reach and connect with its audience in a cost-effective and measurable way.

Traditional Advertising Estimated Return on Investment

We will spend $143,000 on traditional advertising broken up between in store promotions, promotional emails, and SEO. Our expected initial ROI is -$97,900. However, while Colourpop will make money off of our bundles, our goal with our bundles is not an initial profit but to gain new lifelong brand loyal customers while they are young. Assuming that 1 in 2 of people that purchases our products during our campaign are relatively young and will become relatively brand loyal for life, Colourpop's social media campaign could result in a fifty year ROI of up to $310,000,000. It is also important to note we are planning for an initial successful ROI in our social media campaign and event launch of approximately $200 million which will cancel out our negative ROI for traditional marketing.

In Store:

Colourpop will spend $110,000 on in store advertising like end caps, good store placement, posters, and video displays. Our brick and mortar stores Target and Ulta have 3,363 stores. Finding any sort of numbers on what in store promotions cost and their estimated ROI is nearly impossible to do without creating an account and getting a quote from a store. However, I did manage to find an article from Grocery TV that says their carefully controlled research shows that good in store advertisement results in an average sales increase of 7% for the advertised product (Griffin). Using this number, let's say that each store sells about 10 bundles a day for 30,000 sales. A 7% increase in sales due to our in store advertisements would mean 2,100 additional sales. This would result in a gross profit of $105,000 and a net profit of $10,500. This would mean a gross ROI of -$5,000 and a net ROI of -$99,500. This appears to be a big loss for Colourpop, but when you remember that Colourpop's goal is to create new lifelong brand loyal customers it is ok to have an initial loss on in store marketing. If half of the 2,100 sales gained from our in store promotions result in a young brand loyal customer it will result in a fifty year lifetime ROI of $210 million as the average American woman spends $200,000 on makeup throughout their lifetime (Murray). Our target persona Overwhelmed Olivia makes decisions largely based upon in store promotions, packaging, and price as she is young and has no existing brand loyaltes so these promotions should be very effective in reaching our target audience and creating those young and brand loyal customers.

Email:

We will spend $3,400 on weekly emails to all who take our quiz to notify them about new product developments, new curated tutorials, promotions, and other Colour Pop news. 100,000 emails will be sent. Let's say that one in one hundred emails results in a sale for 1,000 purchases. At an average sale price of $50 a bundle that would give us a gross profit of $50 thousand and a net profit of $5,000 assuming a 10% profit margin. That would result in an initial ROI of $1,600. Colourpop's goal however is new and young brand loyal customers, not an initial profit. If half of those purchases result in a young brand loyal customer Colourpop could have a lifetime ROI of $100 million as the average American woman spends $200,000 on her makeup during her lifetime (Murray).

SEO:

Colourpop will spend $30,000 on Search Engine Optimization or SEO. SEO is an umbrella term for various techniques that SEO specialists use to make a website organically appear as high up on the list as possible when people search for words related to that website (Ellis). Colourpop has a long history of doing SEO so it is difficult to know how much or little optimizing our website to include words surrounding our new products will result in sales. At the very least doing SEO will allow Colourpop to maintain its current website revenue which by my estimation is about $1.8 million a month. This is based on Colourpop's existing 5 million monthly website visitors (Nadria), their 3.75% conversion rate (Grips), and their average sale being between $25 - $50 (Grips). For the sake of being able to make an ROI summary statement we will say that the gain specifically from our SEO investment into new words surrounding our new products will be a neutral $0.

Social Media Advertising Estimated Return on Investment

In total Colourpop will spend $200,000 on social media advertising across three months mostly on Instagram. At the end of those three months we expect to have a +$80,000 ROI, or a gross profit of $280,000 made from our campaign. However, while Colourpop will make money off of our bundles, our goal with our bundles is not an initial profit but to gain new lifelong brand loyal customers while they are young. Assuming that 1 in 2 of people that purchases our products during our campaign are relatively young and will become relatively brand loyal for life, Colourpop's social media campaign could result in a fifty year ROI of up to $5 trillion.

Instagram Ad ROI:

We will spend $50,000 on Instagram ads across three months with $15,000 going towards paying our Instagram ad manager and $35,000 going towards ads. The average instagram ad is $0.25 - $0.75 per click. Assuming a median of $0.50 per click, that would get us 100,000 clicks. Assuming 1 in 5 clicks results in a purchase that would be 20,000 purchases. The cost of our bundles averages $50, so that would be a $1 million gross profit.

The average cosmetics product has a gross profit margin of 53% (Freelance Formulations). We will sell our bundles for 20% standard Colourpop price for first time buyers which we will assume all of our Ad clickers will be. Assuming about 20% of our gross profit goes towards paying our staff, that leaves us with a 10% profit margin. When you take our 10% profit margin out of our $1 million gross profit, you are left with a net profit of $100,000, which is a $50,000 ROI from our ad spend.

The goal of our campaign however is not an initial ROI, but a lifetime ROI of gaining new, young, brand loyal customers. According to the TODAY show the average American woman spends over $200,000 on makeup across their lifetime (Murray). Assuming that our quiz is very accurate in curating products that our customers will love, let's say that one in every two customers becomes brand loyal and is young (which is our target audience). That would mean ColourPop would gain 10,000 new brand loyal customers that could potentially spend $200,000 each on ColourPop makeup over the course of their lifetime. That would be a lifetime ROI of approximately $2 trillion.

Influencer ROI:

We will spend $75,000 across three months on influencer advertising, $15,000 on paying our influencer marketer and $60,000 will go to the influencer ads. $60,000 will get us 6 Instagram posts from 6 different mid tier to macro influencers which would average 1,000,000 followers each (Geyser). That means 6 million people would see our influencer add. Let's assume a measly 1 in 200 of those followers end up making a purchase, that would be 30,000 purchases. The cost of our bundles averages $50, so that would be a $1.5 million gross profit.

The average cosmetics product has a gross profit margin of 53% (Freelance Formulations). We will sell our bundles for 20% standard Colourpop price for first time buyers which we will assume all of our Ad clickers will be. Assuming about 20% of our gross profit goes towards paying our staff, that leaves us with a 10% profit margin.

When you take our 10% profit margin out of our $1 million gross profit, you are left with a net profit of $150,000, which is a $90,000 ROI from our ad spend.

The goal of our campaign however is not an initial ROI, but a lifetime ROI of gaining new, young, brand loyal customers. According to the TODAY show the average American woman spends over $200,000 on makeup across their lifetime (Murray). Assuming that our quiz is very accurate in curating products that our customers will love, let's say that one in every two customers becomes brand loyal and is young (which is our target audience). That would mean ColourPop would gain 15,000 new brand loyal customers that could potentially spend $200,000 each on ColourPop makeup over the course of their lifetime. That would be a lifetime ROI of approximately $3 trillion.

Instagram Content:

We will spend $40,000 total on creating high quality instagram content and running a user generated content campaign and Instagram giveaway. Our high quality Instagram content will increase Colourpop's followers and engagement on Instagram. How Colourpop's increased followers and engagement will translate to sales is nearly impossible to estimate and may not result in an immediate return on investment in sales. However, it is still incredibly valuable. According to Shagr Media Co. "A 2018 survey of 22,000 retail shoppers pointed to "trust in the brand" as a top factor in determining where to purchase. Authentic interactions on Instagram builds trust and contribute to long-term loyalty," (Eliasson) so high quality instagram content is critical and worth spending money on. For the sake of having numbers we will plan to have an initial loss of $40,000 and an intangible long term gain.

Video Content:

$20,000 will be spent on creating video tutorials on how to use the products in our bundles. A curated web page with tutorials, Q and A's, and inspos made for every possible combination of skin type, color mix, and face shape will be accessible to every "Love your:" bundle customer via QR code on the bundles packaging, emails, link, and website code. These tutorials will also be released on Youtube, Instagram, and tiktok so that our customers can easily find them on whatever their preferred app is. Colourpop will not make any money specifically from these videos so it will be a $20,000 loss. However, having these videos is an essential part of our product and will be the catalyst for many new customers purchasing our bundles.

Event Estimated ROI

Colourpop will spend $77,500 on a promotional product launch event where we will invite famous people and influencers to come try our new bundles and celebrate with us. We plan to host around 200 influencers at our event. The average influencer has 200,000 followers (Geyser). As a condition of attending our event each influencer will be required to make one post about our new product minimum. Many influencers will likely make more. This would result in about 40 million total views. If one in one thousand of those views results in a sale with our average bundle sale being $50, this would result in a gross profit of $2 million. Assuming a profit margin of 10% our net profit would be $200 thousand. This means our initial ROI would be $122.5 thousand. If one in two of our customers becomes a relatively young person in our target market and becomes brand loyal for life this could result in a fifty year ROI of up to $4 trillion.

ROI Summary

In summary, Colourpop will spend a total of $420,900 throughout our advertising campaign. Colourpop expects to make $525,000 as a result which is an initial ROI of $104,100. Colourpop's ultimate goal with this new product is however not initial sales but new lifelong brand loyal customers. The average American woman spends $200,000 on her face throughout her lifetime (Murray). By our estimated new brand loyal customers gained through our advertising campaign we expect our fifty year ROI to potentially be as high as $12 trillion.

Summary

Our message is "Made with L.O.V.E" meaning that our makeup is Long-lasting, Original, Versatile, and Empowering. It is makeup made for you so you can love yourself, empower yourself, encourage yourself while remaining affordable for you. Celebrating beauty is a wonderful thing! Therefore beauty is a truly personal and individual experience so allow us at ColourPop to cater to you.
